According to Dr. Roland P. Falkner, the statistician of the Senate Finance Committee, the cost of living in Great Britain is 101.0, as compared with 88.86 in the United States, and wages, you know, are less. How's that for free trade?

ASKERISM in our State Legislature should not be tolerated. There has been too much of it already for the State's good.

TAMMANY threatens to hold a ratification this month, and it has been arranged that Senator Hill shall make the opening speech.

KENTUCKY has a State Legislature in session, but what is it doing? What can it do with nearly one-half its members scattered over the State.

DAVID B. HILL may still be a good Democrat, but since the Chicago convention and the nomination of Cleveland he hasn't insisted that he is.

HON. TOM PETTIT is in hard luck. He wants to be elected to Congress, but it goes hard with him to give up the five-dollar-a-day job he already has in order to make his canvass.

PUBLIC opinion in Tennessee is practically unanimous in giving utterance to the opinion that the ring-leaders of the labor riots in East Tennessee should be punished with the utmost rigor of the law.

EX-GOV. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, has hopes that the Democrats will carry New York in November. He had great hopes of defeating Gov. McKinley, too, in Ohio, last year. It won't do for his party to rely too much upon Mr. Campbell, and on what he says.

CHOLERA is abroad in this land. In Europe it abounds to an alarming extent. It is a matter of impossibility to keep in entirely out of this country, but extreme measures will be taken to prevent its spread. The authorities are already on guard.

OVER $18,000,000 will be expended upon the great World's Fair. This will be very much larger than any sum ever expended upon any Exposition or World's Fair. But we have the greatest country in the world and can afford to have the greatest show on earth.

THE heat in Europe has been phenomenal. Sunstrokes have been numerous in Paris and the hospitals made full of patients. In Vienna, the mercury was 101 in the shade; at Trieste, 110 and about the same temperature existed at Berlin, Venice and other prominent places.

SOMEbody is responsible for the unfortunate condition of things at Frankfort. The tax-payers naturally want to know upon whom this blame should rest. This is a sort of a seance between the governor and the legislature, and may be conducted for weeks yet without a single interruption.

THE Republicans of Ontario, in Webster county, are neither dead of sleeping. They had a lively meeting one day last week and were addressed by W. E. Bourland, of Dixon. Mr. Bourland's speech was eloquent and strong, and his friends were delighted. If any Republican club desires a compact address of the true metal, we advise them to call Mr. Bourland.

THE greatest caution and vigilance will be required to prevent the introduction of cholera into this country. The disease exists in epidemic form in Hamburg, Antwerp and other ports, which have close commercial relations with us. A few cases are reported in London. Our medical boards are suggesting sanitary measures, while strict quarantine will be maintained against the infected countries.

HON. GEO. H. TOWERY, of Dixon, has been doing excellent campaign work. He has a happy way of reaching the plain people, and presenting the issues of the day in such a manner that they can understand them. He has lately been in Union county, and friends inform us that his speech at Morganfield was his best effort. When he comes to this county we advise all to hear him, and they will be amply repaid.

THE Congressional race in this district is between Capt. Ellis, the Democratic nominee and Dr. Kimbley, the Republican nominee. The man who disputes it is ignorant of the situation. Every vote polled for Mr. Pettit is an indirect vote in favor of Kimbley. This cannot be denied by any gentleman of the Third party who will give the situation a sober thought. If Mr. Pettit succeeds in drawing away from the Democratic party one-half that is claimed by him Kimbley will represent this district in the next Congress. There is no use in mincing words or dodging behind the bush. We all know the very small majority Gov. Brown received over a competitor unknown and hailing from the other end of the State. Dr. Kimbley lives in an adjoining county, is a good speaker, personally very popular, rich and as full of fighting energy as Mr. Ellis. Mr. Pettit or the best politician in the land. He is an aggressive fighter, never tires and is going to win if it is in the cards for him to do so.—Henderson Gleaner.

ON every hand, we hear the new Constitution of Kentucky denounced as immature, unsatisfactory, inexplicit, ambiguous, and so on, for quantity and quality. It is recorded somewhere in those wonderfully and fearfully constructed tomes, entitled "Debates of the Constitutional Convention," that a delegate said "yes," in response to an inquiry, if he would abolish the Legislature had he the authority to do so. This idea that the legislative department is a necessary evil, under our form of government, pervades the entire document. The debates of the Convention, and the Constitution, when construed in the light of those debates, clearly indicate that the Convention had no confidence in the ability, patriotism or integrity of the average General Assembly. The Constitution so hampers legislation, and places so many obstructions in the way of prompt action in conduct of the public business that, when this fact is considered, in connection with the limitation of the length of a legislative session, it is easy to believe all that has been charged against the Constitution on this subject.—Frankfort Capital.

THE action of the miners at Coal Creek, in resisting legal authority, cannot meet the approval of law-abiding people. Yet there is much in their cause to excite both friendship and sympathy. The laws of Tennessee, which authorize the leasing of her convicts, and their employment outside of the prison walls, are not in keeping with our advancing civilization. It is a policy that has no argument in its favor except of profit in dollars and cents. The laboring class, who depend on their daily toil for a living, feel dishonored in being placed side by side with felons and thieves, and their wages reduced to the paltry sum paid for convict labor. Aside from these objections, society demands that convicts should not be kept within the prison walls and not be brought into open contact with law-abiding people. The public sentiment and moral sense of the good citizens of Tennessee have been quickened by the recent revolution, and while they will uphold the State in suppressing resistance to legal authority, they will demand the appeal of the odious laws which have been the cause of so much strife.

It is significant and creditable that so many intelligent women are earnestly engaging in the work campaign organization for the success of the Republican national ticket. Women are just as much interested in good government as men; and they are as fully entitled to take part in political movements affecting governmental policies as the masculine sex. In conservative England educated women have long exercised a powerful influence in political campaigns. Ladies of the highest rank and the most thorough culture do not think it beneath them to conduct a political canvass or to address assemblies of voters from the public platform; and they are regarded as highly important factors in electoral contests by the leaders of both the great parties. American women may yet follow the examples of their English cousins in this respect. The knowledge they would gain would not in any sense impair their womanliness, while their participation in politics would tend to increase the amenities of partisan warfare and would accomplish valuable results in enabling them to judge intelligently in regard to matters that are of vital importance to all citizens of the United States, regardless of sex. It is natural that the sympathies of the best portion of American womanhood should be with the Republican party. In the prosperity of the home and the school every true woman is intensely interested; and the Republican party is emphatically the party of the home and the school. The policy of that party, carried out in face of bitter Democratic opposition, threw open the West to settlement on the most favorable terms to the pioneer, and established throughout that great region a new empire of homes. Wherever the Republican party is strong schoolhouses abound, Republicanism and popular education go hand in hand. As the especial champion of order, morality and enlightenment the Republican party demands the support of the good women of America. In its economic policy the Republican party appeals no less strongly to women. It is a cardinal principle of Republicanism that the wages of every American workman should be maintained at a point which will enable him to house his family well, to make ample provision for the education of his children and surround his loved ones with comforts unknown among the toiling masses of Europe. Republicanism would make every man a king in his own house, every woman a queen in her own home. That is why so many women are hoping and working to-day for Republican success.—New York Press.

HENDERSON REPUBLICANS.

The Harrison Protective League Endorses Dr. J. F. Kimbley and Kays for Work.

HENDERSON, Ky., Aug. 24, '92.
Gentlemen—Enclosed you will find a copy of resolutions unanimously adopted at a meeting of the Harrison Protective League, last night, with a request that they be published in your paper, that the Republicans throughout the District may know that in Henderson the party is thoroughly aroused and prepared to do its full duty.

Yours very truly,
R. W. BALL,
Sec. Harrison Protective League.

Be it Resolved, That the Harrison Protective League endorse the action of the Second District Republican Congressional Committee in nominating a candidate for Congress in this district, and that the League hereby pledges the support of its members to the candidacy of the nominee, and congratulates the Republican party of this district that in the person of Mr. J. F. Kimbley, who on the field of war demonstrated his loyalty to his country, and in civil life has shown his devotion to the glorious principles of Republicanism; be it Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished Mr. J. F. Kimbley, and that they be published in the Republican press of the district.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever, nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. DAWSON SPRINGS.

Dawson, Aug. 30, 1892.

Mr. Editor—In looking over the hotel register at the arrivals for the past year, I find your name often on same, and having read your valuable paper many times and not having had the pleasure of an introduction to you, I introduce myself by writing you this letter, to make public if you see fit. I am a resident of Cairo, Ill., for the past 37 years. Four years ago I was afflicted with dropsy, and hearing of the wonderful waters of Dawson, came here and in about four months was permanently cured, being treated so kindly by the proprietors and Manager Pritchett, of the Arcadia. I became so thankful and attached to them, the springs and Hotel Arcadia, that I come here yearly for recreation and pleasure, and to see my old friends. This time I miss the genial face of my friend J. W. Pritchett, which puts the double task upon Friend Holeman, of entertaining me, and royally well does he do it, having so much to attend to, having the whole responsibility of the success of the house upon his hands. He is a gentleman of sterling worth; has both a fatherly and motherly care over all children and young folks entrusted to his care, a guardian and advisor to the older ones. In writing I cannot say too much for this gentleman or his moral work. The Arcadia, under his management, is gaining in popularity—every room, at the present time, being occupied, and more guests arriving on every train, and as he says to-day, he will soon have to pack his guests. I will have to make a move and take a smaller room. The house is being run very smooth—not a word of dispute among the help, or a word of complaint from the guests. The table is bountifully supplied and the guests waited upon with rapidity. Everything about the house is clean and neat. Having been a hotel-keeper and restaurateur, I know whereof I speak, and I must say that the worthy landlord here deserves much credit for his devotion and untiring efforts to please his patrons. To show the popularity of the Arcadia and its manager, I would cite you to the fact that there is not a dozen guests at Crittenden Springs, and only one man and his daughter at Dixon, etc. The old Arcadia, as heretofore, will see all the public resorts closed, before its doors are shut for this season. There has been about fifty Cairoites here this season, being a large increase over former years. There are delegations here from Henderson, Shelbyville, Louisville, Nashville and Evansville. Cairoites here now are nine in number, all enjoying themselves to their hearts content.

I had the pleasure, the other day, of meeting Mr. John B. Atkinson, the associate partner of Mr. Holeman, a resident of your town. I was much impressed with him, and have named him the "Coal King of Kentucky" in my correspondence to Cairo, Ill.

I trust before leaving Dawson to have the pleasure of a personal acquaintance with you, and not knowing whether these few lines will be agreeable for your acceptance, I will close, having nothing to do here, only to correspond with different papers for past time, and inform people in general of the worth of the wonderful and God-giving waters. Yours truly,
H. WINTER.

Chills and Fever.

Torpid action of the liver is usually the cause of chills and fever. Calomel irritates the liver and induces temporary activity. Carter's German Liver Powder stimulates the action of the liver by imparting strength, and also acts on the lower bowels, expelling fecal accumulations. A cure accomplished by this treatment is permanent. The best way to cure chills and fever is to prevent them. This can be done by taking German Liver Powder every few days during the malarial season, or whenever you feel bilious. Price 25c per bottle, at Robinson Bros' drug store.

It isn't the man who oftentimes breaks his word who is the best authority on parts of speech.

Literary Note.
Hon. J. Soule Smith, editor of Fetter's Southern Magazine has as editorial in the September number a thought in connection with the Hon. W. C. P. Brockbridge of the Columbian Exposition at Chicago, which should appeal most forcibly to the fair-minded upholder of personal liberty as well as to the political economists of the country. It is a masterful production and a worthy of this thoughtful writer.

"Miss Budd is a very sharp girl." "Yes, indeed. I guess that is why she cuts so many of her acquaintances' ankles."

Talk of the Town.
The wonderful sale of Yucca Chili Tonic. The reason for all this is it has never failed to cure the chills when properly taken according to directions and its pleasant taste. Children do not object to take. Don't take any substitute. Price 30c. Warranted at Robinson Bros' drug store.

BEGAN YESTERDAY.

THE HOPKINS COUNTY FAIR BEGINS UNDER FAVORABLE AUSPICES.

You Should Attend the Fair this Year in Order to Have an Adequate Idea of its Immensity.

It will perhaps be profitable as well as interesting to those who take a pride in our enterprise dedicated to the highest aims of our citizens and the advancement of our country.

The exhibits are said to be unique and creditable and characteristic of the county's progress. The management promises a program to eclipse all predecessors.

The officers have given more time and attention to this important event than is customary for business men to devote to such enterprises. This has been an arduous undertaking, and let us congratulate ourselves upon having secured such an organization of strength, coherency and intelligence to promote this important work.

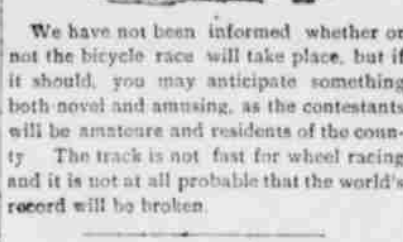

It is assured that the net proceeds will go toward improving the property. This is an important reason why you should be present and aid toward making the Fair a brilliant success. With improved grounds, an increased number of exhibit buildings and more inviting premiums, we hope that next year the company will be enabled to offer unprecedented attractions.

While we cannot, with accuracy, give in this brief article a profusely illustrated and descriptive account of the Fair, we will, however, attempt to give an abbreviated program of to-day's races:

County running race of horses owned in the county, half mile dash, purse $25—$30 to first, $5 to second.

A free for all, half-mile heats, best two in three—$50 to first, $15 to second.

County trot, half-mile heats, best two in three—$20 to first, $5 to second.

We have not been informed whether or not the bicycle race will take place, but if it should, you may anticipate something both novel and amusing, as the contestants will be amateurs and residents of the county. The track is not fast for wheel racing and it is not at all probable that the world's record will be broken.

MORTON'S GAP.

Several of our people were at Grapevine Sunday.

Tom Hanks was in town Monday and Tuesday.

The Prodigal son has returned, and Jno. G. Morton and family are rejoicing.

That organ is here for the use and benefit of the Sunday-school and singing.

Bro. Hyde was home to see his family and to fill his regular appointment, Sunday.

Eddie, if you and Willie make another break like that, your names will be "Denials."

Miss Alice Harris has just returned from Madisonville, where she has been spending a few days.

John Hall of Madisonville was in town Tuesday, trying to persuade us that he is the coming man.

Chess Edwards had his foot mashed very badly last week by falling timber, but he is getting along as well as could be expected.

Wonder what can be the attraction at Hunting Branch that causes so many of our young men to find themselves thither so often.

A New Business College.

The many friends and former patrons of Prof. Enos Spencer, for several years Secretary and Treasurer of the B. & S. College of Louisville will be pleased to know that he is now at the head of a strong Corporation which has opened in the Louisville Board of Trade Building a strictly modern and practical Business College, under the well known and popular name of "Spencerian." They are at the business center, connected with all the leading business interest of the country, and Prof. Spencer's reputation as a practical Business Educator is all that is necessary to guarantee the success of the college. We bespeak for them a good patronage from the young men and women of this vicinity who desire that quality of practical instruction, which prepares them for good employment and success in life.

REDUCED RATES
To the Hopkins County Fair. The L. & N. R. Co. will sell Round trip tickets to Madisonville, Ky., at one fare for round trip from Guthrie, Henderson, Providence and all intermediate points. Tickets to be sold Aug. 31st to Sept. 30, good till Sept. 30. Remember the date of the Fair, Aug. 31, Sept. 1, 2 and 3, 1892.

To Our Subscribers.
The special announcement which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with Dr. B. J. Kendall Co., of Enosburg Falls, Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the Horse and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enabled to obtain a copy of that valuable work free by sending their address to B. J. Kendall Co. (and enclosing a two-cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work. To every lover of the Horse it is indispensable, and it treats in a simple manner all the diseases which afflict this noble animal. Its phenomenal sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it a standard authority. Mention this paper when sending for "Treatise."

WHEN AND WHAT TO WRITE.

Be Careful That Your Signature Does Not Get You Into Trouble.

One cannot be too careful in the matter of one's signature; people who are induced to sign their names to any document presented by plausible acquaintances, are sure to meet with trouble soon or late. I once read of a farmer who had a hundred machines for cleaning wheat shipped to him at once. He then remembered a few weeks before, he had signed, as he had believed a recommendation for the machine, but the tricky agent made of it an order instead. A lawsuit resulted, but the farmer lost his case—for there was his name, "in black and white" signed to a very clearly defined order. Have you a habit of scribbling your name hilly on a piece of paper and leaving it in your desk? Then take warning from a little story: A wealthy of 14 had two sons-in-law. After her death one of them produced what he declared to be her will, giving him and his wife superior advantages. The signature was declared to be genuine by her lawyer and all the business men in town familiar with her handwriting. After a bitter contest in court, the son-in-law lost, and the will was set aside and killed by the other. Then in a few years the murderer came to die and confessed that he had written the will himself, without her knowledge or dictation, just above her signature, which he had found written on the bottom of a sheet of paper. There have been many orders for goods forged in just the same way. An incident of a different nature contains another warning to the universe. One of the postal regulations provides that when a letter is not delivered to the parties to whom it is addressed it may be returned without opening to the sender, if his or her address is written upon the envelope. A lady was visiting a friend, and becoming wearied with her stay, she wrote a letter to her husband containing some uncomplimentary comments upon her entertainers, and asking him to send money for her return. For some reason the letter failed to reach its destination, and in due time the postmaster forwarded it to the principal address in the corner of the envelope. It was the stationery used by her host, a professional man. He opened it unthinkingly; the disclosures were extremely mortifying to both parties, and brought about an estrangement. So, if you would escape the risk of being placed in an exceedingly uncomfortable position, be careful what you write.

THE LOON.
A Bird Swift in the Water as Well as in the Air.

It has been said that one of the strong strokes of nature was when she made the loon—a bird which represents the wilderness and solitariness of the wild and most solitary spots. It dives with such marvellous quickness that the shot of the gunner gets there just in time to cut across a circle of descending tail feathers and a couple of little jets of water flung upward by the wet feet of the loon.

Speaking of this bird, Burroughs says that in the water its wings are more than wings. It plunges into the deeper air and flies with incredible speed. Its head and beak form a sharp point to its tapering neck. Its wings are far in front and its legs equally far in the rear, and in course through the crystal depths is like the speed of an arrow. In the northern lakes it has been taken forty feet under water upon hooks baited for the large lake trout.

I had never seen one till last fall, when one appeared on the river in front of my house. I knew instantly it was the loon. The creature at once seemed to divine the intentions of the boatman, and sidled off obliquely, keeping a sharp lookout as if to make sure it was pursued. A steamer came down and passed between them, and when the way was again clear the loon was again swimming on the surface. Presently it disappeared under the water, and the boatman pulled sharp and hauled. In a few moments the bird reappeared, some rods further on, as if to make an observation. Seeing it was being pursued and no mistake, it dived quickly, and when it came up again, had gone many times as far as the boat in the same space of time. Then it dived again and distanced its pursuer so easily that he gave over the chase and rested upon his oars. But the bird made a final plunge, and when it again emerged upon the surface it was over a mile away.

Worth the Trouble.
Family anniversaries, or the celebration of them, occasion some trouble in the household, especially if there are no guests; but they pay for their effort involved.

"This has been the nicest day I ever knew," said a boy to his mother, one evening. "The birds have all been singing, and the sun has shone every minute, and everything has been so lovely, just for your birthday, mamma, and I am so glad!" and he emphasized his gladness with a hearty laugh and kiss. For weeks he had been looking forward to this day, planning and making a little birthday gift as a surprise, and when the time came, his whole mind was given to making his mother happy. Everything that is desirable is attended with some trouble; but how can we keep our children contented and happy at home without taking trouble? And no mother regrets the trouble when she sees her children regarding their home as the best place in the whole world. Try to celebrate the birthdays one year, and see if it does not "pay" in the enjoyment of the whole family.

Living on $5 a Month.

Consult Belle B. Ames has recently written an interesting description of the condition of the laboring classes in that part of China. The average workman earns $5 a month. Out of this he supports his wife and children. With so small an income it is necessary for the family to be richly economical. The daily fare for an Amoy workman includes a pound and a half rice, an ounce of meat, a pound of cabbage or other vegetable, and a little salt and oil and the fuel to cook it with, and the whole costs less than six cents. The laborer lives in a small house usually only one-story high, about 30x30 feet in size. There are no gas, water or sewer conveniences. The garbage is given to the family pig, and the offal is carefully preserved until it amounts to enough to sell as a fertilizer to farmers and gardeners. Consult Belle Ames says that the common belief that all Chinese read and write and are well informed does not contain a particle of truth. The higher classes, who do not exceed five per cent of the population, have a good literary education. Ninety per cent of the people, however, are familiar only with 100 to 200 ideographs, which enable them to write to their friends and also to keep accounts in schoolboy fashion. They seldom try to read, and rely for literary amusement upon itinerant readers and story-tellers.
